There's a lot to love in BoConcept's new collection. The Paris console and Demand floor lamp are both gorgeous in their minimalist design. But it's the Miami modular sofa which has really caught our eye. Shown here in green velvet, it's a cool piece, ideal for flexible living, which is giving off some serious Scandi vibes. From £719, boconcept.com

The 2848 fire from Morso's newest range is a reimagining of its classic squirrel stove. This newer version is a space saver sitting at under 85cm tall. The pedestal style is well-suited to a modern interior looking for the warmth and nostalgia of a wood-burning fire, but none of the aesthetic fuss.

Stand tall

Looking for a light which stands out from the crowd? Tamasine Osher has you covered. The Cupola floor lamp consists of a hand-turned spalted beech shade (made from entirely foraged, naturally fallen beech) and an industrial steel frame. The wood and metal come together to produce a harmonious, unusual piece.

RUG RATS

Who wouldn't want to sink their toes into this leafy floor covering? The Whirl from Rug Artisan is a bright mix of deep red and light green boughs. Liven up a tired living room by layering this beneath your sofa. Or, let it inspire your colour scheme and pull out the hues in your accent cushions.
